SCOTTY'S MESSAGE

Much is being said about the great number of daylilies being put on the market, until it is utterly confusing to even a connoisseur of hemerocallis to know just what varieties he should buy, unless he is able to get around all over the country and see what everybody is growing.

When he is fortunate enough to be able to see most of the new things, he often finds that so many of them are similar, or are really too much like other varieties to warrant their being introduced. It is no small task for even a commercial grower to grow all the varieties for comparative purposes. Yet, unless he is able to get around each year and see what the others have, or else grow them himself, he is likely to be putting on the market something not nearly as good as what is already available.

Some of the hybridizers have been discussing ways and means of cutting down indiscriminate introduction of new varieties. Their contention is that too many people who have no conception of what constitutes a good daylily, or of what is available on the open market, are introducing high priced daylilies.

In order to eliminate much of this duplication of varieties, and in order that the would-be buyer may have some standard by which to judge the new variety being introduced, Mr. Elmer Claar and some of the other Directors of the Hemerocallis Society and members of the Daylily Committee have been working toward some solution to this problem. One of Mr. Claar's ideas was that the hybridizer could furnish and sign a statement with each new introduction, somewhat like the following:

"I am offering my red daylily seedling No. XX-00 to the public. I am growing the following red daylilies: (Then a complete list of all daylilies the hybridizer grows with which to compare his new seedling would follow).

"And it is my opinion that my seedling No. XX-00 is an improvement over any of the above named introductions. Its superiority, in my opinion, consists of the following facts:

(Then would follow the merits of the new introduction)."

That would give the would-be buyer an opportunity to see by what standards the hybridizer had judged his new introduction. I don't know how many hybridizers would be willing to cooperate, but it would be a wonderful help to the public.

In that connection, Mr. Claar's statement regarding his new introduction this year is being printed on the page of new introductions in this catalog.

Your comments or suggestions regarding this will be appreciated, and we shall be glad to send them on to the Directors of the Hemerocallis Society.

Aren't we pleased at the growth of The Hemerocallis Society! Let's all keep plugging, and each member get a new member—and each new member get another new member, and we'll just grow, and grow, and grow!!

Dr. Corliss' book, Hemerocallis, The Perennial Supreme, is still one of the finest books on daylilies you can get, and his Kodachrome slides are something out of this world. Don't forget about them when you're planning your garden club meetings, or even when you'd like to see the latest and most beautiful of all sorts of flowers, or to entertain gardening visitors some evening. They're well worth the nominal rental fee, as you'll agree once you've seen them and tried them on your friends. Dr. Corliss' address is Dr. Phillip G. Corliss, P. O. Box 68, Somerton, Arizona.

In our 1950 catalog, in order to combat the ever higher rising freight costs, we introduced our Home Nursery Section. Here you could purchase choice plants in smaller sizes at a cost within the reach of anyone's pocket. The enthusiastic response to this idea astounded us, and it was with the greatest regret we found that we had to withdraw this offer in our previous catalog. Since then we have received a constant stream of letters from satisfied customers, telling us how nicely the plants were growing, and requesting information as to when we could renew this offer.

With this catalog we are happy to once more be able to offer you choice plants at prices you can afford to pay, with LITTLE or NO FREIGHT COSTS. These freight costs can be quite an item. They are paid by you, the customer, and a field grown plant dug with a ball of earth can cost you more in transportation than the original cost of the plant. You will find these small plants listed on Pages 20 and 21.

HEMEROCALLIS

Commonly called daylilies, these plants are easily grown and most effective in the garden. They are quite versatile, lending themselves to perennial border plantings, naturalizing in partly shaded woodlands, along pools or streams, or in the foreground of the shrubby border. Almost any climate is suitable. They demand neither full sun nor shade, but seem to thrive in any atmosphere. They come in a multitude of exciting colors; from palest yellows to deep glowing oranges, with rich shades of golden yellows, buff, apricot, salmon-rose, pink, rose, bronze, copper, red, maroon, purple and wine shades.

During the hot summer months where there is a dearth of bloom, these bright stars bring life and gayety to an otherwise sun-scorched garden. By planting with season in mind bloom can be had from early spring until frost.

TIME TO PLANT—They can be planted any time during the year when the ground is not frozen, but we find it best to plant them in the spring or just after they have finished blooming in late summer or early fall.

BLOOMINGS SEASONS—We are indicating the blooming season after each variety with the following code: EE—Extra Early; E—Early; EM—Early Midseason; M—Midseason; LM—Late Midseason; L—Late; VL—Very Late.

BONUS—We have discontinued the practice of offering starred varieties free as a bonus when you purchase daylilies amounting to $10.00 or more. In place of this, we have listed all varieties at the very lowest price possible that all, irrespective of amount of purchase, may benefit. This saving will also enable you to choose additional plants you would like instead of being limited to varieties of our selection.

TERMS—Cash with order, check, draft or money order. Postage is paid on all orders over $3.00. Please include 25¢ postage on smaller orders.

GUARANTEE—We guarantee good, healthy stock, true to name, delivered to you in good condition, but we do not assume the responsibility for the growth in your garden.

JOIN THE HEMEROCALLIS SOCIETY

If you are not already a member of the Hemerocallis Society, we cordially invite you to become a member. The Quarterly News Letter, as well as the Yearbook published by this society are most informative and beneficial.

Send dues, $3.00 a year, to Mr. George Lenington, Box 139, Kansas City, Mo., or to us and we shall be glad to enter your membership.

FREE—For each new member in Region 10 (Alabama, Kentucky, Mississippi and Tennessee) we will give daylilies amounting to $3.00.

1952 INTRODUCTIONS

NASHVILLE (Elmer A. Claar)—A most unauusal banded variety, light yellow in color with a very contrasty band. It is distinguished by its smooth texture, heavy substance, and all-around garden value. Its foliage is a beautiful blue-green color. The scapes are about 39" tall, and gracefully formed. The plant is well proportioned, particularly the flower in relation to the scape and foliage. (Sold Out until 1953)$25.00

Mr. Claar's statement regarding the introduction of NASHVILLE follows:

"I am at present growing over 700 different named varieties of daylilies. I have been hybridizing daylilies since 1937 and have raised thousands of seedlings. I believe NASHVILLE, a 1952 banded introduction, (seedling 50-12a) is better than or significantly different from any of the following summer blooming daylilies, all of which I am growing in my garden in 1951 under similar conditions:

- | | |
|------------------|-----------------|
| Brown-eyed Susan | Flamboyant |
| Carmen Corliss | Loveliness |
| Cathedral Towers | Madam Butterfly |
| Colonial Dame | Mikado |
| Delight | Mrs. David Hall |
| Dorothea | Psyche |

Eurydice

and all other banded variety of Elmer Claar seedlings.

"I believe NASHVILLE to be better because of the number of people whose opinion I respect who have selected it in my garden as being superior to any others that I grow. The plant is well proportioned, particularly the flower in relation to the scape and foliage. Its foliage is a beautiful blue-green color. The scapes are about 3'-3" tall and gracefully formed. The flower is a banded variety, light yellow in color with a very contrasty band. It is further distinguished by its smooth texture, heavy substance, and all-around garden value. NASHVILLE will be a lovely garden flower for many, many years to come."

(Signed) ELMER A. CLaar.

RUBY LANGSTON (Elmer A. Claar)—This is an improved Enchantress, a better plant, with the blooms larger and more perfectly formed. The color is a soft yellow with a light flush in the eye-zone. The plant is about 40" tall. It has an average of 30 blooms to the stem and blooms for a considerable period$10.00

MERRIEWOODE STAR (William T. Wood)—A bold and startling bicolor with very large wide open flowers on nicely branched erect stems. Sepals and petals slightly re-curved with wide open throat of golden glow. M 34"$3.00

HOME NURSERY

The following choice plants are all well established. They are pot grown and come to you with a complete undisturbed root system. This, with a little care and attention from you, assures a very high percentage of survival. The plants are of a size that should develop within two to three years into first class landscape size specimens.

On orders of less than $5.00, please include 50c for packing and postage. On orders over $5.00, packing and postage FREE.

No. 1 Grade—Selected as to health and vigor of growth. Each$.35

Jumbo Grade—Selected for size, vigor of growth, with special attention to branching. Each$.50

COTONEASTERS (Rockspray)

Adpressa—A spreading dwarf shrub, a gem for the rock garden with tiny leaves, white flowers and brilliant dainty red berries. Creeping.

Divaricata—Spreading Cotoneaster. Graceful spreading habit, small green polished leaves. Red, egg-shaped fruit. Glorious scarlet Autumn tints.

Franchetti—Evergreen leaves about 1¼ inches long; orange fruit. Very showy. Not hardy North.

Horizontalis—Low spreading shrub with graceful sprays arching out over ground and rocks, making an excellent cover. Tiny leaves turn bright orange and red in the fall. Red berries.

PARRY NURSERIES — Signal Mountain, Tenn.

ELEAGNUS

Pungens—Fast-growing evergreen shrub with handsome foliage. Leaves are green on top, silver underneath. Inconspicuous flowers are followed by berries.

Pungens Fruitlandi—Similar to above but with larger and broader leaves.

EUONYMOUS

Japonicus—Evergreen shrub with shiny leaves.

Patens — (Sieboldiana) — A handsome evergreen shrub particularly lovely in fall and winter when covered with myriads of coral-red berries.

ILEX (Hollies)

Acquifolium (English Holly)—Very glossy leaves with large triangular spiny teeth and bright red fruit.

➤ Acquifolium Hybrid No. 1—Very similar to above with variations in the spines.

➤ Acquifolium Hybrid No. 2—Very similar to above.

➤ Acquifolium Hybrid No. 3—Very similar to above.

Cornuta Burfordii—Large shiny green leaves with few or no spines. Very showy with an abundance of large red berries.

Cornuta Femina (Chinese Holly)—Handsome evergreen, similar to above with more spines. Large shining red berries amid heavy growth of rich glossy green leaves.

Crenata Bullata (Convexa)—Small evergreen leaves, nearly round. Black berries.

Crenata Bullata seedling, prostrate type—Similar to above except prostrate.

Crenata Rotundifolia—Leaves round and glossy. Evergreen with black berries.

Opaca East Palatka—Selected variety of American holly. Fast growing with light green leaves, and many red berries.

Opaca Femina—Berry-bearing American holly, selected from heavily berried trees.

Vomitaria—(Yaupon)—Evergreen shrub to small tree with slender leaves. A profusion of scarlet berries make this holly very showy.

ILLICIUM ANISATUM — (Anise Tree) — A handsome evergreen with broad, light green leaves which, when bruised, emit an anise fragrance.

JUNIPERUS chinensis Pfitzeriana (Spreading Juniper)—Most widely planted of the spreading junipers. Wide spreading branches pendant at ends. Foliage a constant grayish-green.

Pfitzeriana aurea — Similar to above with young growth golden yellow.

LAUROCERASUS ZABELIANA (Zabel Laurel) — Evergreen, with foliage rich, glossy green and little affected by cold or dry weather. Hardier than English or Portugal Laurel.

LOROPETALUM CHINENSIS—Small, dark green foliage. Flowers in early spring are white and feathery. Evergreen.

PIERIS JAPONICA—Lovely evergreen shrub with dainty white flowers in drooping panicles, similar to lily of the valley. New foliage comes out in brilliant reddish color, and changes through various color tones to its final stage of dark green.

ABELIA GRANDIFLORA—Prices on Abelia—25c each; 10 for $1.00. Glossy evergreen foliage with quantities of white and pink arbutus-like flowers all summer. Splendid for hedge.
